

MANAGEMENT COMMITMENT

Security of information is a process to protect data from unauthorized access, distribution, destruction, or unauthorized modification.

LAfricaMobile, like many businesses, is facing an increase in the number of data threats, including threats to data, such as cyber threats.

Information security is not confined to computer systems, nor to information in its digital or electronic form. On the contrary, it applies to all aspects of the safety, the guarantee, and the and protection of data or information, whatever its form.

In order to best protect our data and especially those of our customers, against these threats, LAfricaMobile has set up reinforced security devices, which are constantly re-evaluated.

This is why we have decided to go even further, with the implementation of an Information Security Management System (ISMS) and an ISO27001 certification process.

The Management and the whole team of LAfricaMobile is thus committed to support all the actions which fall within the framework of information security and to make available the means necessary for their realization. We must be able to control the risks related to security and thus be able to ensure and guarantee :

- The continuity of our services,
- The ability to respond to potential incidents,
- The integrity, reliability and confidentiality of the information that will be transmitted to end customers via these platforms.
- Promoting a security culture and capitalizing on knowledge in the field of information security.
- The application of the global information security policy

This program is a corporate project in which all our employees are involved and mobilized.
